KATRINA: 5 YEARS LATER

President Obama and first lady Michelle Obama visit the Columbia Parc Housing complex Sunday in New Orleans.

OBAMA PLEDGES SAFEGUARDS IN WAKE OF DEVASTATING STORM

CNN

Five years ago Sunday, the water rushed in, the lights went out and for thousands of Gulf Coast residents, nothing was ever the same.

The milestone was marked by vigils, tears and reflection on what was, what came after, what still remains to be done and what, if anything, we have learned from Hurricane Katrina.

A number of events were planned in New Orleans and elsewhere to commemorate the anniversary of the landfall of Katrina, the costliest and one of the five deadliest storms ever to strike the U.S.

President Obama visited New Orleans on Sunday and spoke at Xavier University of Louisiana, where he announced that the construction of a fortified levee system to protect the city is under way.

"We should not be playing Russian roulette every hurricane season," he said.

Obama also vowed that reforms are being put into place "so that never again in America is somebody left behind in a disaster because they're living with a disability or because they're elderly or infirm."

The hard-hit parishes of Plaquemines and St. Bernard were holding commemorative community events, and a third commemoration was planned in New Orleans' Jackson Square.

Katrina slammed into the Gulf Coast near the Louisiana-Mississippi state line early Aug. 29, 2005.

After the storm, "We were a city that had no people in it," said Ray Nagin, who was mayor of New Orleans when Katrina struck.

"Now, we're a city that has over 80 percent of its population back. Lowest unemployment in the country. Construction everywhere. I think we're on our way to success," Nagin told CNN's Don Lemon as the storm's anniversary approached.

Still, it is widely agreed that more work remains to bring the Gulf Coast back from Katrina's devastating blow. Some say little has improved, and entire neighborhoods in Louisiana and beyond have not rebounded.

"Nothing's really changed," said Conrad Wyre III, 35, of New Orleans. Some regions are still "in shambles," he said, and some residents still feel helpless and without support, as if they are "floating in the wind."

"This is the place ... where I think the American people witnessed a real loss of faith in their federal government," Housing Secretary Shaun Donovan told CNN's "State of the Union" on Sunday.

When Obama took office, 40,000 families remained in Federal Emergency Management Agency trailers or were using emergency housing vouchers, "and literally tens of thousands of them were at risk of losing their homes within weeks of us coming in," Donovan said. "Today, 98 percent of the families are in permanent housing."

'Eat Pray Perform Disgusting Sex Act'

A female friend and I were having an interesting conversation the other day about the new Julia Roberts film "Eat Pray Love" and what a woman would have to do to get me to see it.

I racked my brain and came up with the appropriate answer, but I absolutely cannot share it with you.

This thing—this one thing that could get me to see Julia Roberts get over a divorce and discover herself in exotic locales—is so vile, so imaginatively revolting, so sexually inappropriate that as soon as Congress learned of it, legislation would be rushed through to outlaw it.

This thing—call it an "act" if you want—is so supremely depraved that there are exhausted, jaded deviants the world over who, if they were to hear of it, would sit up and say, "OK, geez, wow, I'm totally impressed. That is actually pretty damn weird."

But I will say in my defense: It's a movie starring Julia Roberts based on a book that every single 20-something girl in the U.S. reads on the train. It's like if the Oxygen network had a threesome with "Sex and the City 2" and the "The Time Traveler's Wife."

In order to invent a movie I'd want to see less, you would have to go to the Fermilab in Batavia where they have a bunch of scientists working with a particle collider and say, "Hey, you mopes! Cut this particle collider nonsense out. You've all been reassigned to make a movie that this one Chicago writer—who displays a rather galling insecurity about his masculinity—would want to see less than 'Eat Pray Love.' We'll start by finding out if Annette Benning is available."

Perhaps you're saying, "No way, Markley: You're just a guy. Cooking ramen noodles isn't as easy as figuring you out. If Jessica Alba or Olivia Munn of 'The Daily Show' wanted to go on a date with you under the one condition that you see 'Eat Pray Love,' of course you'd do it."

Like hell I would!

I would clearly sacrifice major organs—maybe even some of the ones that don't have duplicates—to go out with Jessica Alba or Olivia Munn, unless this hypothetical date includes seeing "Eat Pray Love," in which case I'm going to have to insist that we take the time to perform this one nasty, unspeakable, borderline frightening, unquestionably fun thing that I cannot tell you about in print—or even whisper into your ear while two Brown Line trains rumble by.

So there it is, future girlfriend/wife/transgendered baby sitter I hit on while drinking. No matter how much I care for you, I refuse to see "Eat Pray Love" before you buy the flex-edge, multilayered sanding tool and a 6-pound ham. Oops, I've said too much already.

CORRECTION

An item in RedEye's Thursday story about Chicago drinking laws misstated the rules concerning tailgating at U.S. Cellular Field. At U.S. Cellular Field, the parking lots open two hours before game time, and tailgating is allowed. There is no tailgating allowed after the game.

Steve Martin, 40, of Indianapolis, wears an ice bag on his head to cool down after finishing Sunday's triathlon. NANCY STONE/TRIBUNE

Hot stuff

Chicago Tribune

Marcus Delatorre, 16, wakes up at 4 a.m. every day to swim laps at his local pool before lifting weights.

After school, he joins his cross country team to run miles around his neighborhood.

Delatorre then heads home, completes his homework and then rides his bike until he "gets tired."

On Sunday, all that hard work came in handy when Delatorre, a student at Community High School in West Chicago, became one of the youngest athletes to finish the 2010 Lifetime Fitness Chicago Triathlon. The 31.93-mile race tested athletes' swimming, biking and running skills along Chicago's lakefront.

The race proved especially grueling because of Sunday's 90-degree heat.

About 10,500 people participated in this year's race, organizers said. Participants included young and old—one man was 73—professionals and amateurs, and able-bodied people and people with disabilities.

"It's an adventure," Delatorre said. "It not only keeps me in shape, but it makes for a real challenge."

The race began at 6 a.m. along the Lake Michigan shoreline near Columbus Drive and Balbo Avenue, where racers swam about a mile south and then north while family and friends cheered them on. They then biked north on Lake Shore Drive before circling back around toward the Loop. Near Randolph Street, they ditched their bikes and ran toward the finish line near Balbo and Columbus.

At the finish line, children volunteers poured water over the worn-out racers and cold wet towels were passed out.

"I ran my first race in 1986, and I swore

Athletes complete Chicago Triathlon on a sweltering Sunday to myself I'd never do it again. But I became hooked," said racer Shane Arters, 41, from New York City. "It's a mental challenge to overcome the physical barrier."

Susan Katz, a parathlete who played for the 2004 parathlete Olympics basketball team, used a racing chair and a hand-cycle chair to complete the course.

Katz, 31, has used a wheelchair since being diagnosed with a congenital birth defect where her spine didn't completely form.

Although she could coast through some parts of the course, she was at a disadvantage during the swimming portion of the race because she didn't have use of her legs, she said.

"Everybody has their own challenges," Katz said. "But I think, like for everyone else, finishing strong gives you that better self-confidence."

Slain teen not target of shooter

Chicago Tribune

It was supposed to be a weekend of celebrations for Darrell "DJ" McKinney.

An older sister drove up from Tennessee to watch him play in the first football game of the season, his brother just returned from a monthlong basketball camp and his friend was holding a back-to-school block party.

McKinney, who was about to start his sophomore year at Orr Academy High School, was fatally shot at the Humboldt Park party Saturday night. He was the unintended target of gunfire.

The 15-year-old was on a sidewalk in the 900 block of North Harding Avenue about 8:40 p.m. when a suspect opened fire on another man during a foot chase, police said.

"Whoever they were shooting at, [they] missed, and those two bullets hit my baby," Vanessa McKinney said of her son, who was shot in the chest.

No one was in custody Sunday. Detectives continue to investigate the case, police said.

McKinney, the youngest of five siblings, went everywhere with his mother, friends and family said. Vanessa McKinney drove him to school and to practice, and, on rare occasions, she let him attend parties such as the one he went to Saturday. She took him to the party.

"We tried to keep him away from what's out there," she said. "He didn't go out. He didn't run the streets."

She dropped McKinney off at about 7:30 p.m. He planned to stay only a little while and said he would call when he was ready to be picked up.

About the time Vanessa McKinney expected to hear from him, her phone rang. A friend called to tell her he'd been shot.

She jumped in the car and sped to the house. "I just wanted to get to my son," she said.

As she pulled up to the house, the ambulance drove away. Police escorted her to Stroger Hospital, where her son was pronounced dead.

When she first heard the news, long-time family friend Gwendolyn Barnes wondered how McKinney could have become the random victim of violence.

"He was always with her," Barnes said of Vanessa McKinney on Sunday as the two women embraced and cried on the couch.

Chicago police seized more than $1 million in drugs and several weapons in a weeklong sweep on the city's South and West sides. CHICAGO POLICE PHOTO

Dozens arrested in sweep

Chicago police made 48 arrests, recovered weapons and seized about $1.7 million in drugs in a weeklong sweep targeting illegal activity on the city's South and West sides, Police Supt. Jody Weis said at a news conference Sunday.

Among the arrests was a 27-year-old associate of an area gang found with 10 grams of powder cocaine, 5 grams of crack cocaine and a loaded AK-47 rifle. Weis said that at the time of the arrest, Eric Granger, of the 4300 block of South King Drive, was on parole for aggravated battery with a baseball bat.

Weis said the arrests and seizures took place in neighborhoods "plagued by drug and gang activity."

"These concerted and consecutive efforts ... truly represent the commitment of the Chicago Police Department to target criminals and eliminate activities associated with the most violent crimes in the city," Weis said.

Included in the drug seizures were approximately 6 pounds of crystal meth, with a street value of nearly $900,000. It was the largest such meth bust in Chicago this year, officials said.

Anti-prostitution signs near O'Hare

In Chicago and across Cook County, police are trumpeting new approaches to crack down on the prostitution, drugs and violence that plague some of the region's most troubled neighborhoods.

Sheriff's deputies installed billboards targeting men who solicit sex along Mannheim Road in suburban Cook County, a stretch of road with low-budget hotels near O'Hare that are notorious for prostitution.

The so-called "Dear John" billboards remind those who pay for sex that they face steep fines under the Public Morals Ordinance adopted by the county a year ago.

"Dear John, if you're here to solicit sex, it could cost you $2,150. We're teaming up to bust you," reads one such billboard in the 2300 block of Mannheim Road. More than 100 men have received citations and thousands in fines over the last year, money that's pooled to support programs for abused women, officials said.

3 stabbed at Red Line station

Three people were stabbed Sunday morning at the 95th Street train station on the Red Line, police said. The stabbings happened after the three people got into a verbal altercation with an acquaintance, who stabbed them.

11 hurt, 3 killed in shootings

Three people were killed and at least 11 other people were wounded in overnight shootings Saturday and early Sunday, including a male shot by police. Area detectives were investigating and no one was in custody.

Children pulled from burning car

Witnesses are crediting several people in Altgeld Gardens for pulling two children from a burning car where a person died after an accident Saturday. The children were hospitalized in serious-to-critical condition.

Trapped miners to get shampoo, MP3 players

1 COPIAPO, Chile Family members have mounted a constant vigil in a tent city—dubbed Camp Hope—outside the copper and gold mine in the Chilean desert where 33 miners have been trapped underground for more than three weeks. A week ago, miners first sent up a written message telling rescuers they had been safely huddled in a shelter 2,300 feet below the surface since the Aug. 5 mine cave-in.

Pope Benedict XVI said in his weekly message from Castel Gandolfo, his summer residence, on Sunday that he was praying for the miners and their relatives.

To help the miners survive, rescuers were sending down aluminum bed frames, towels, hot-weather clothes that wick away sweat, shampoo and shower caps. MP3 players, speakers and a mini-TV projector—along with recordings of soccer games and other films—also were on the way.

Civilian death investigation

2 NATO forces are investigating whether a raid on Taliban positions in northern Afghanistan left civilians dead after complaints from provincial leaders, an allied general announced Sunday.

President leads attack

3 Twelve militants and five police officers were killed Sunday morning in a confrontation that was led by Chechen President Ramzan Kadyrov himself, Russia's official RIA Novosti news agency reported.

Allegation: Cricket game fixed

4 British police questioned four members of the Pakistani national cricket team after allegations surfaced that gamblers fixed part of a match against England, the manager of the Pakistani team said Sunday.

Hurricane Earl intensifies

Forecast to gain "major" Category 3 status, Hurricane Earl was bearing down on the northern Leeward Islands on Sunday, the National Hurricane Center said. Earl became a Category 1 hurricane Sunday.

Earthquake rattles Calif. border

5 A 4.1 earthquake struck the California border region Sunday, the latest of thousands of aftershocks from the Easter Sunday Mexicali tremor. The latest quake occurred at 8:53 a.m. about 33 miles from Mexicali. There were no immediate reports of injuries or damage.

MLK, tea party rally crowds collide

6 WASHINGTON Standing on the hallowed ground of the nation's civil rights icons, the leading conservative luminaries of the tea party movement on Saturday called on tens of thousands of people gathered on the National Mall to turn to the values of the founding fathers to restore what they say is a deficit of honor in America.

Four miles away, a smaller but no less spirited crowd filled a high school football stadium and the sidewalks around it, then marched through Washington's streets, angrily protesting that the first rally had usurped the memory of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. on the 47th anniversary of King's famous "I Have a Dream" speech.

The two sides came together briefly as the marchers—nearly all of them black—passed near the Lincoln Memorial, where tens of thousands, if not hundreds of thousands, of people—almost all white—had streamed to hear Fox News personality Glenn Beck and former Alaska Gov. Sarah Palin at Beck's "Restoring Honor" rally.

One marcher hoisted a white sign with black letters reading: "Glenn Beck and Sarah Palin are racists," and there was verbal sparring. But there were no physical confrontations and no arrests as police on horseback and motorcycles, along with U.S. Park Protective Service agents in navy blue SUV's, kept the two groups apart.

Conscious of the stigma of some of the anti-Obama imagery of tea party rallies during the health care debate this spring, Beck urged attendees not to bring signs. There was still plenty of self expression, however.

Wearing "Proud to Be American!" shirts, the Beck boosters hoisted American flags and chanted: "USA, USA!" as the marchers passed the Robert F. Kennedy Justice Department building. The marchers waved photos of King at them and chanted: "MLK, MLK!"

Financial outlook dim

7 Markets are expected to be dismal this week as investors mull over the state of the economy. A government report on personal income and spending is due out Monday.

Bear clawed

Preseason warning signs point to months of pain for Cutler and Co.

RedEye

Preseason football is meaningless, right? Technically, yes, those wins and losses don't hurt a team's Super Bowl chances.

But the third NFL preseason game is generally considered to be a dress rehearsal for the regular season. It's the game when coaches and players are supposed to put it all together and show the world what months of workouts, practices and scrimmages have produced.

If that's the case, Bears fans have reason to worry. Not much went right in Saturday's 14-9 loss to the star-less Arizona Cardinals at Soldier Field. Among the miscues, mess-ups and mistakes, here are three things to really be concerned about, Bears fans. Read 'em and weep.

BAD

Offensive line

Like last season, Jay Cutler was a sitting duck in the pocket. He was sacked four times and didn't have time to set up his passing plays. He's now been sacked nine times in the preseason. Put your running shoes on, Jay.

Cutler after a sack Saturday.

Bad Cutler

Bears fans might have retired the Good-Rex, Bad-Rex lingo when schizo quarterback Grossman left town, but perhaps it's time to resurrect it for Cutler. He looked like Bad Cutler again, throwing two interceptions and failing to inspire any confidence in him. He finished 10-of-29 for 129 yards. That's not gonna Cutler it. Ugh.

WORST

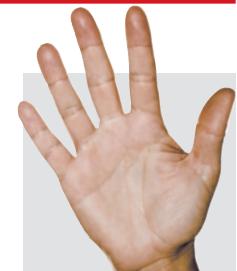

Leaky D

Sure, Brian Urlacher was out with an injury and Lance Briggs left the game with one of his own, but there's no reason a Derek Anderson-led Arizona team should be allowed to flourish. Anderson and backup QB Matt Leinart threw one touchdown apiece, and the Cards converted 53 percent of their third downs. The secondary looked particularly weak, allowing big gainers to the likes of Max Komar and Onrea Jones (thankfully, Larry Fitzgerald was not in the lineup). Overall, the Cardinals had 274 passing yards. On the bright side, $91.5 million man Julius Peppers had a sack.

One day, we might retire the jersey of one of these five. But first, they'll have to do something worth remembering. redeyechicago.com/5on5.

TOPIC	BRIAN MOORE @redeyesportsguy	LEO EBERSOLE lebersole@tribune.com	ERNEST WILKINS erwilkins@tribune.com	ELLIOTT SERRANO redeyechicago.com/geektome	MARC SILVERMAN @waddleandsilvy
1 What was missing from Frank Thomas' jersey retirement at U.S. Cellular on Sunday?	Minnesota coming in and retiring Joe Mauer's jersey. The Twins mess up all of the Sox's plans.	No heartfelt reunion/brat-eating competition with David Wells?	Nothing. Frank Thomas, you are my favorite baseball player of all time, and you made me cry in public.	A Toronto Blue Jays jersey for Sox fans to burn.	A pre-ceremony Kenny vs. Ozzie cage match. Drop the tweets and use your fists already!
2 Who from the Cubs might get a jersey retirement 10 years from now?	No-brainer: Kosuke Fukudome—in Japan.	Carlos Zambrano's No. 38, next to Christian Bale's jacket in the Smithsonian's new Freakout Wing.	Starlin Castro, but it won't be the Cubs who retire his number.	Sammy Sosa, right before the Apocalypse.	The one with the curse on it. OK, retire them all.
3 What have you learned in pre-season football that you can apply to fantasy football?	Same thing I learned last season when I finished second: Aaron Rodgers is a stud.	The next time you see Mark Sanchez putting up big numbers will be on "Dancing With the Stars."	It doesn't mean anything in the grand scheme of things, so have some fun!	I learned more watching "Eat, Pray, Love." I'll be doing two of those things all season.	I've learned that any hopes of the Bears having a winning record is a "fantasy."
4 How do you explain the Bears' terrible play in Saturday's third preseason game?	Terrible? Are you kidding me? Wait until they play Green Bay. Bring your barf bag.	Mike Martz NFL offense - Rams Hall of Famers = Steve Spurrier NFL offense.	So terrible I knew it was going to be bad, so I didn't even bother watching.	Mike Martz isn't so much an Evil Genius as much as a Nutty Professor.	It's a complex situation and involves too much football lingo: The Bears have bad players and a terrible coach.
5 What would be your strategy for winning a triathlon?	Ride piggyback during the run, use a submarine for the swim and a motorcycle for the ride.	Give me a three-minute head start, then release a pack of Glenn Beck followers.	Pull a "Million Dollar Man" Ted DiBiase and pay someone to do it for me. Everybody's got a price ...	Same way you win a nuclear war: don't start.	Pull a Jim Furyk and oversleep. Believe me, that strategy makes you a winner in the long run.

Be inspired. Be the difference. Be a nurse.

A big day for Big Hurt

White Sox retire Frank Thomas' No. 35 jersey

The 39,433 assembled at U.S. Cellular Field saw a different side of Frank Thomas on Sunday: An emotional one, which belied his reputation of 16 years as a cold, detached White Sox player.

"I'm emotionally drained," the normally staid Thomas said in pregame ceremonies after his No. 35 was retired and his likeness unveiled on the left-center-field wall.

"Eighteen years in this game, but 16 full ones here, it brought back a lot of memories, thinking about the great times—and bad times," he said.

"It just caught up to me. I'm a very, very proud man today, and this probably was the proudest day of my life."

"I had a speech written out, but as soon as I broke down, I couldn't even think about reading that whole thing."

Standing in front of many former teammates—he estimated he played with more than 800 in his career—Thomas thanked the fans who "made me what I am."

After the statue-unveiling ceremony, the next honor for Thomas could be the Hall of Fame in Cooperstown. He would be eligible for induction in the summer of 2014 and would seem a sure bet with

N.Y. YANKEES 2, WHITE SOX 1

Gavin Floyd was on the mound to try to salvage a series win against the N.Y. Yankees and prepare the Sox for what could be a make-or-break road trip to Cleveland, Boston and Detroit. Floyd allowed only two runs in 6 2/3 innings, but the Sox offense faltered in a 2-1 loss. They remained 4.5 games behind Minnesota, which lost to Seattle.

MANNY WATCH

Manny Ramirez will be sent to the White Sox on a waiver deal Monday, according to a baseball source who spoke on the condition of anonymity. The Dodgers aren't expected to get any players in return but are likely to unburden themselves of the $4 million or so that Ramirez is due to earn over the remainder of the regular season.

his 521 homers and 1,704 RBIs.

"I'm praying," he said. "It would be a huge, huge honor coming [from the small town] I came from. I worked my butt off. If that day comes, I'll have a bigger smile than I had today probably."

"[But] today was more heartfelt because this was the Chicago true fans here, and man, they treated me really, really special."

» Kevin Durant's shooting and Kevin Love's strength sent the U.S. to a 2-0 start in the world championship; the Americans beat Slovenia 99-77 on Sunday in an opening-round game. The Bulls' Derrick Rose had seven points, six rebounds and five assists.

» European Ryder Cup captain Colin Montgomerie named Luke Donald, Edoardo Molinari and three-time major winner Padraig Harrington as his wild-card picks Sunday. Donald played college golf at Northwestern.

Finance Hotline Set Up to aid Carbuyers with Credit Woes

Auto Financing took a giant step forward with the launching of a dedicated Car Credit Hotline at Al Piemonte Ford in Melrose Park. The special number is 1-800-545-CREDIT.

Callers will be able to determine whether or not they qualify to finance a new or used vehicle without ever having to come into the dealership.

Ed Dixon "Credit Coach"

"It's a toll free number and there is no charge to see if you qualify, shoppers can save a lot of time by calling in advance."

One big advantage for finance hopefuls is Ed Dixon, fondly referred to as "The Credit Coach" at Al Piemonte Ford. Over the years he has successfully helped thousands of credit challenged shoppers get the financing they deserved.

It Pays to Appraise at Al Piemonte Ford

For a limited time, Al Piemonte Ford in Melrose Park is offering the public a $5.00 Target Gift Card just for the opportunity to appraise their current car. There's no obligation to sell it or trade it.

However, Al Piemonte Ford management plans to offer aggressive prices for these vehicles in an effort to beef up their pre-owned inventory.

"We think this is an opportunity for people to sell their cars for a substantial amount of cash. If they need another car and qualify, they can finance that purchase. It's a win/win for everyone!", explained Todd O'Reilly, Vice President and General Manager of the giant dealership.

Limit one per appraised vehicle. Limited to the first 50 people.

Think dog-friendly patios stop at beer-and-burger bars? Think again

By M. Kathleen Pratt

The dog days of summer are waning, but Chicago's dog-friendly patios will stay open for at least a few more weeks. For the final stop in our tour of the city's newest dog-friendly spots, we took Metromix staff dog Begley out for cocktails and shared plates at River North's Gilt Bar.

For the dogs

THE DOG PERSPECTIVE

Shade: This is one of the coolest patios on which I have had the pleasure of dining this summer. With the building on one side and planters on the other, no matter where I sat, I could find shade.

Water: The nice lady who brought my owners' food said there was water for the asking, but I didn't need any. I had it made in the shade. One of my owners did drop a bit of duck confit terrine, and boy was it good. I'm totally going on a hunger strike until I get some of this in my dish at home.

Humans: There were a lot of women at this place, and they all greeted one another (and sometimes me too!) in high-pitched voices. That got me excited, because as everyone knows, high-pitched voices mean something exciting is about to happen. I can't remember what it was that was so exciting, but I do remember that I sat next to one table of women who were especially nice. They probably thought I was handsome. The people who worked there were kind too. Even the man who took my owners' car away and then brought it back later waved to me as I rode off. (Did I tell you I got to go for a ride in the car? I did! I rode in the car!)

For the rest of us

THE OWNER PERSPECTIVE

Shade: Sidewalk seating wraps around the corner and runs alongside the restaurant, which makes for excellent shade. But because the area is so narrow, we were concerned Begley would be in the way. Fortunately, servers tend to work from the outside, leaving plenty of room for dogs to stretch out between the tables and the wall. We brought Begley in through an opening between planters so he wouldn't disturb anyone. Had we not, the close quarters would have been very difficult to navigate.

Food and drink: There aren't too many dog-friendly patios in town where the specialty of the house is anything more than a burger and a beer. Gilt is the rare exception. From seasonal highlights such as peach salad with shaved manchego ($11) to menu standbys such as hand-cut pork meatballs ($16), we adore just about everything this place turns out. Cocktails ($11 each) are on par with the city's best, adeptly balanced and thoughtfully presented. Do note, however, that this all makes Gilt a more appropriate choice for more mature dogs (those who can handle a couple of hours hanging out under a table without getting antsy) than high-strung puppies.

Service: We've never found the initial greeting here particularly friendly, and our most recent visit was no exception. We were made to feel like we should just go away with our pesky dog, rather than wait for an outdoor table. (Troubleshooting isn't a strength either—we had to suggest that they take down our cell number and call when an outdoor table was available since, you know, we couldn't bring a dog inside.) Once we were seated, however, the mood swung dramatically. Our server greeted all three of us warmly—Begley included—and remained attentive throughout the evening.

Comedy club

'Modern Family,' 'Glee' camps clean up at Emmys

Comedy ruled at the 62nd annual Emmy Awards, and first-time host Jimmy Fallon was the king.

The "Late Night with Jimmy Fallon" host, who took over Emmy duties from Neil Patrick Harris, topped last year's show with several pre-taped bits that included nominated shows and a lot of TV actors not recognized by Emmy voters.

Fallon turned out to be the perfect choice in a year when TV comedies had the most buzz going into the ceremony. Fox's "Glee" and ABC's "Modern Family" were all the rage in their freshman seasons and definitely were the favorites in the best comedy category.

"Modern Family" took the big prize on Sunday, while supporting actor Eric Stonestreet and the writers also won. "Glee" was honored twice, creator Ryan Murphy winning a best director statue and Jane Lynch, who plays caustic cheerleading coach Sue Sylvester, winning the best supporting comedy actress award. She gave her hometown a shout-out.

"I want to thank my parents from the South Side of Chicago for raising us to the sounds of musical theater and for being so unintentionally hilarious," she said.

Lynch already had appeared in Fallon's opening number, when the comic spoofed "Glee" by rounding up several members of the cast—including Lynch, Lea Michele, Chris Colfer, Corey Monteith and Amber Riley—as well as Tina Fey, Jon Hamm, Nina Dobrev, Jorge Garcia, Randy Jackson and Joel McHale to perform Bruce Springsteen's "Born to Run" onstage.

for all

A look at some of the memorable moments from the 62nd annual Emmy Awards on Sunday. CURT WAGNER, REDEYE

Lovely Lynch

Local favorite Jane Lynch won best supporting comedy actress for playing Sue Sylvester on Fox's "Glee" and gave one of the best speeches of the night.

By George!

Julianne Margulies presented the Bob Hope Humanitarian Award to George Clooney, truly a class act. "It's important to remember how much good can get done because we live in such strange times where bad behavior sucks up all the press," he said.

'Blood' connection

Mick Jackson won outstanding director of mini-series or movie for HBO's "Temple Grandin," which cleaned up Sunday. More interestingly, I fell even more in love with presenter Alexander Skarsgård of "True Blood," who looks totally hot in a tux.

The opener topped Harris' bit last year, or was at least as great. Kate Gosselin mocked her "Dancing With the Stars" appearance when the group declined her offer to join the glee club. She joined in anyway. The opener also included an obligatory Betty White appearance.

In the other comedy categories, Edie Falco won best actress for Showtime's "Nurse Jackie."

"This is the most ridiculous thing that has ever, ever happened in the history of this lovely awards show," she said. "I'm not funny ... I love this job. I'm so grateful."

Jim Parsons won best comedy actor for playing genius researcher Sheldon on CBS' "The Big Bang Theory."

On the more sober, drama side of things, Bryan Cranston of "Breaking Bad" took home his third Emmy for best actor.

"During the time it took me to walk up here, I venture there were 200 text messages to the other nominees saying, 'You were robbed.' I cannot argue with that," Cranston said.

"Mad Men" also was a repeat winner for best drama, and Kyra Sedgwick was a first-time winner after four previous nominations for "The Closer."

"After 2 weeks, my blood sugar went from 180 to 120 and stayed there!"

Breakthrough "Antioxidant" Diabetic Drink Hailed 'A Miracle'

Naturally improves blood sugar, cholesterol, circulation, energy and more in as little as 2 weeks!

"I've been a diabetic for 48 years, my quality of life has been restored!"

What part of your diabetes would you like to see 'go away'? Are you plagued by weight gain and food cravings, high and low blood sugar levels, mood swings, low energy and constant fatigue, poor circulation, vision problems, intermittent pain or aggravating bouts of brain fog or memory lapses?

There is good news and it comes in the form of an effervescent drink called OPC Factor, which quickly revitalizes your entire body and mind.

Better Blood Sugar!

"My doctor was amazed! I don't know what you're doing, but keep doing it!"

Holistic health specialist, Dr. Charles Berg, says, "Antioxidant therapy may slow progress of impaired glucose tolerance."

Diabetic Doyle Allen is living proof. "After only two weeks, my blood sugar went from 180 to 120 and stayed there!"

Unhealthy Blood Before Healthy Blood After

Washes away blood sludge by eliminating toxins, free radicals, and even parasites!

This product is not intended to diagnose, treat, cure or prevent any disease. These statements have not been evaluated by the FDA.

Results in as little as 20 Minutes!

Actual blood scans taken twenty minutes apart show how OPC Factor virtually flushes away free radicals, excess cholesterol crystals and sugar molecules in the bloodstream.

Excess sugar in your blood causes oxidation which leads to "slow sticky blood," a problem linked to neuropathy and edema in extremities as well as kidney damage and even blindness. OPC Factor greatly improves circulation promoting faster blood flow; crucial for diabetics.

"OPC Factor has helped lower my glucose levels. I sleep better and have more energy and better circulation," says Charles Leavitt.

Receive One-Month Free!

Try OPC Factor risk-free today and receive a free 30-Day Bonus supply along with a free book, The Aging Antidote, a $20 value. OPC Factor is clinically proven to boost your energy, and help restore youthful circulation, cholesterol and blood sugar levels.

It's backed by a 90-day satisfaction guarantee so you can experience the short and long term results risk free, too! Call today!

HAPPY BIRTHDAY!

Virgo

Aug. 23-Sept. 22

Mercury has you looking at photos of the one who got away. You're recalling that lusty trip to Mexico with your college boyfriend. You're fantasizing about that curvy girl you were engaged to before she decided to move to Tibet and live with the yaks. Oh, the memories.

Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23

You could confess your eternal love for someone as the moon turns you into a sentimental fool. Remember, once you use the "L" word, it's difficult to take back. Expect certain consequences and be prepared to handle them with grace.

Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 21

Don't misjudge your sweetheart's intentions. A moon opposition is making you more jealous than usual. When your guy takes an extra half-hour at the gym, it doesn't mean he's engaging in shower sex with other men. Really, it doesn't.

Sagittarius Nov. 22-Dec. 21

You're revisiting old goals and dreams from your past. Why didn't you complete your degree in animal husbandry? Why didn't you marry that girl or guy you were living with for years? Mercury says it's good to ask yourself these questions.

Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19

A bountiful sun is bringing you goodies. Just when you thought the girl of your dreams was going to date somebody else, she'll ask you out. And right when you gave up on finding a new job, a recruiter will call you up out of the blue.

Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 18

Saturn is inspiring you to take a hard look at your daily routine. Those morning trips to Dunkin' Donuts are not helping your diet plan. And drunk-dialing your crazy ex on a regular basis does not bode well for your future romantic happiness. It's time to make some changes.

Pisces Feb. 19-March 20

Stop doubting yourself so much. The sun opposite your sign is making you wonder if every single life choice you've made was the wrong one. OK, so dating Freddy the Felon or Harriet the Hysteric wasn't such a great idea, but you've moved on since then. Right?

Aries March 21-April 19

With three planets opposite your sign, you're worried that you've become Gollum from "The Lord of the Rings." You feel repulsive. Those 20 extra pounds aren't that noticeable. And nobody cares about your back hair. OK, they care a little.

Taurus April 20-May 20

Work is driving you insane, and you just want to spend quality time with your honey. The moon is encouraging you to dim the lights, turn off the phone and computer and indulge in some loud, hot, sweaty lovin'.

Gemini May 21-June 21

Your partner keeps saying, "We need to talk," so you're spending as much time as possible at the office, the gym or driving around in your car. But you can't avoid the inevitable. The moon says get it over with and start chatting.

Cancer June 22-July 22

A relationship feels weird, thanks to Venus. You're wondering if you're with "the one" or "the one who is going to turn you into a psycho killer." Tensions are high. Get some perspective outside your relationship. Talk to a counselor, minister or your goldfish.

Leo July 23-Aug. 22

The moon is conspiring to bring you sexual satisfaction. Even if you're putting in long hours on the job, flirtatious opportunities will arrive unexpectedly. That FedEx delivery girl will flash her cleavage at you. That friendly customer will show off his bicep tattoo.

Lower Back Pain?

Are You or Someone You Know Suffering From Lower Back Pain?

Northwestern University is seeking volunteers who have lower back pain in order to determine where the pain is recognized in the brain. Participants will also be evaluated to determine why pain goes away for some people while it remains for others. This is a 12 month study consisting of 1 visit at the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago and 5 MRI scans at Northwestern Memorial Hospital's Olson Pavilion. All visits will take place in downtown Chicago.

- Eligible participants must:
- Be 18 years or older
 - Have a history of lower back pain which began 4-16 weeks ago with pain radiating into the buttocks or legs
 - Be able to undergo a MRI (no pacemakers, metallic implants, or spinal implants)

Please call 312-503-3181 for more information on how you can take part in this research study.

RED CARPET REWIND

Bright & dark

By Emily Rosenbaum Maka | REDEYE

White, cream, black and midnight blue were the colors of choice at the Emmy Awards on Sunday night. The few who wore bright colors and kept their dresses simple and elegant scored. Then there were those who took chances—some admirable, some gone horribly awry. We're talking crazy patterns and enough tiers and ruffles to swallow a town. Let's get to it. GETTY IMAGES AND REUTERS PHOTOS

Nina Dobrev
“The Vampire Diaries” beauty takes a risk in this heavily detailed dress and scores.

Olivia Munn
This berry shade and the simplicity of the dress are perfect on the “Daily Show” correspondent.

Sofia Vergara
The “Modern Family” stunner hits all the right notes in this pale lemon column gown with silver accents.

Jenna Fischer
Another great color, and the details on the “Office” sweetie’s bodice are modern and striking.

Lea Michele
The “Glee” girl shines in a ruffled, flamenco-inspired frock. Her soft curls complete the look.

THE BAD

January Jones

This scaly blue monstrosity with an asymmetrical hemline is so unappealing on the "Mad Men" lovely.

Rutina Wesley

Love "True Blood," hate this messy, unattractive pattern. Did a painter clean his brushes on this?

Emily Deschanel

The "Bones" actress is overpowered by heavy bangs and this tiered, ruffled horror show.

Anna Paquin

It looks as though the "True Blood" star is wearing the offspring of a matador and a futuristic linebacker.

Mindy Kaling

The "Office" funnywoman sports prom hair and a prom dress, and not in a good way.

Naya Rivera

The "Glee" cheerleader sports prom hair and a prom dress, also not in a good way.

"She's nurturing with me and makes me breakfast at any time, and that's my favorite food. It would be like 3 o'clock in the morning and she will still make me waffles. She'll be the best mom."

—Nick Cannon, telling people.com about his wife, Mariah Carey.

Waits

An alleged accessory of Paris Hilton's has her in a bit of trouble. Hilton was released without bail Saturday morning after she was arrested in Las Vegas for investigation of cocaine possession. A small container of the drug fell out of her purse in full view of a police officer, The Associated Press reported. Hilton was in a Cadillac Escalade being driven on the Strip by her boyfriend, Cy Waits, when a police officer allegedly smelled marijuana smoke wafting from the car. GETTY IMAGES PHOTOS

Gaga-ween

Lady Gaga probably will be one of this year's most popular Halloween costumes, so you had might as well join the masses. Rubies.com has released its officially sanctioned Gaga getups (we assume this means she approved them), including a soda can wig and the blue swimsuit (left) from the "Poker Face" video.

Tupac's last day

The long-awaited Tupac Shakur movie soon may begin production now that Oscar-nominated screenwriters Stephen J. Rivele and Chris Wilkinson have been hired to write it. But don't expect a biopic about the rapper's 25-year life. Instead the film will focus on Tupac's last day, with flashbacks to his life before his shooting in Las Vegas in 1996.

Joey's boo-boo

That has to hurt. Joey Lawrence's cornea was ripped when an actor accidentally hit him in the eye with a script, TMZ reports. While rehearsing for his upcoming series "Melissa and Joey" with Melissa Joan Hart, the unnamed actor leaned in for a hug and poked Lawrence in the eye. Joey posted a pic on his Twitter account of his red and puffy eye and said he's "trying to heal."

DIGIT

$21.3 million

That's the estimated amount of money that "The Last Exorcism" earned at theaters to make it No. 1 at the box office over the weekend, but not by much. "Takers" was close behind with $21 million.

txtable

Remember me?

The re-release of a blockbuster with nine minutes of footage added earned $4 million over the weekend? What was it? Text "box" followed by the number of your choice below to 87708. We'll send you a message telling you if you got the answer right.

- 1. "Iron Man 2"
- 2. "Avatar"
